Praise the Lord from South Africa!

God is so good. We are so excited that after waiting for nearly 3 months, and even though we are still technically in lockdown, we were finally able to open our church up for in-person services once again. Even with the government requirements of social distancing and limited singing, it was a tremendous time, not just to the members, but for my wife and I as well - to come together and worship with the people in the church. And the Power of God fell in a special way, and everyone was blessed by the Lord.

During June, working in conjunction with the United Pentecostal Church of South Africa Children's Ministries Department, we had the wonderful opportunity of using an illustrated Bible story to minister online to many Sunday School children throughout this beautiful nation and are looking forward to presenting even more stories.

Despite the COVID-19 virus that is still growing in this country, God is constantly opening doors. Someone in a store asked me the other day about the virus and the riots and all that is going on, and I told them it was just a sign that Jesus is coming back very soon and we must make sure that everything is right between us and God and I invited them to come to our services. Everywhere we look there are people that are hungry for God, and we are so excited to be working for Him in this final hour.

Thank you once again for your continued prayers and partnership for investing in the work here in South Africa.
