

Saved by the bell!

Kat Moyou's AIM report | February 2024

Summer break is over! The sounds of kids have filled the Nuevas Alturas school once again. This year in addition to teaching English to grades 4, 5 and 6 I am teaching art to grades 9 and 10. Later on I will be teaching the Bible study, Meet my Big Faithful God: One God, One Faith, I wrote to grade 7; it is currently being translated.

Help me stay in Paraguay!

It is our desire that my Aim term is extended to finish the school year. Global Missions has approved our request to extend my stay by six months. The plan is for me to move back to Canada for December of this year. This is all pending on your kind donations and prayers. I trust in and give thanks for your continued support. Stay tuned for fundraising attempts. For example, selling digital copies of my Bible Study.

overview February

- Two weeks of professional development sessions with the teachers at Nuevas Alturas
- Finally finished the grade five English workbook redesign
 - making good progress on the grade six book
- Started on translating the Bible study I have developed
 - the English version will soon be edited
- Completed the first two weeks of teaching Art
 - the kids are so kind to help me out when I can't find the spanish word I am looking for
 - I think that means they like me
- Taught Sunday School on the topic of emotions: happiness and fear

- We pulled off a back-to-school evangelism event and saw hungry kids from the school seek the Lord at the altar.
 - Sis Roxanna from Bolivia was our guest speaker did a tremendous job
- We took our Sunday school kids to the church in Asunción for special kids service with Roxanna.

Back-to-school event

Sister Roxanna, from Bolivia, delivered a powerful message of the gospel to our school and church kids. During the altar call there was a sweet and gentle presence of the Lord that was touching the hearts of these kids. The Lord knows just what they need — tender love. I will remember how the Lord dealt with them in my dealings with them.

Least importantly, the kids had a blast. Teacher Ronnie was dressed as an astronaut and did the best moon walk I ever witnessed. I dressed up as an alien with purple skin with white hair.

School is back in session!

The teachers hit the classes for two weeks before we welcomed the students back! It was the most Spanish immersive I had experienced since I arrived. Which is good! I learned some education jargon.

City Church

Our Sunday school kids were invited for a special kids service delivered by Sister Roxanna at the church in the city of Asunción.

Website down

If you have visited my site, I apologize.

Google domains would not let me renew my website domain name because I am in South American. Meanwhile, Google has sold my domain to Square Space and during the transitional period I am unable to renew my domain. Square Space wants to help me out but is unable to until some transaction between both companies have been completed. So, I will wait and pray I can buy it back before someone else does.

Broke my toe

Yup. That is right. I can't catch a break! :P I wish there was a better story than just walking into the long side of my sofa.

You should have seen one morning: Belén, my cat, escaped the house as an act of playfulness. I was limping around trying to catch her so I would not be late for church. It was a spectacle.

How many injuries have I had since I arrived. 5. 3 of which are still healing for months now! :P

I am so grateful for all those that helped send me to this lovely nation. Please, continue to cover Paraguay, the mission work, and the christian school in your prayers.

If you desire to be apart of the revival in Paraguay please consider making a one-time donation or become a monthly Partner in Missions (PIM).

Canadians, please enrol through your UPCI church for a tax receipt, using the designated account 112351.
