

Monthly Newsletter

This past month has been nothing short of incredible. As a team, we've taken on a wide range of projects and tasks, all contributing to the impactful work happening here in Moldova. When I first arrived, I had no real idea of what to expect beyond the basic job description I was given. But now that I'm here, this experience has far surpassed anything I imagined.

I've never been part of something that's still in the early stages—still being built, you could say. And yet, that's what makes it so special. The amount of training, learning, and personal growth I've experienced in just one month has been truly remarkable.

The Missionaries

The Missionaries have been the best hosts since arriving! They have shown the whole team the ins and outs of Moldova. We have all become family in the short amount of time being here. Both Brother and Sister McBride have both told us countless of times that they are not only invested in Moldova, but also invested in all of us Aimers! They are very personable and keep it real, which I appreciate greatly! We have weekly team meetings, prayer meetings, church, and sometimes even days where we go and sightsee! The McBrides are the best!

English Club

Each week, we have English Club on Thursdays. We have English conversation with people that reside in Moldova that want to speak and learn more English. We have had 4 or more guest each week! Which is AMAZING!

Music

Throughout the week, Milan and I practice music in our free time! Some Sundays I will sing and Milan usually plays the piano. We have to practice extra because we are singing some of the songs in a different language. Either Russian or Romanian. It can be tricky, but we always manage with the help of the missionaries! I am definitely a fan of singing in Romanian. Russian is way harder in my opinion. However, I am grateful to be able to have the resources to learn both!

MK Childcare!

One of the many responsibilities I've been given is helping out with the MKs—and I can honestly say, they are the sweetest kids! Adelina and Silas always keep me on my toes, but I wouldn't trade my time with them for anything.

Even in this short time, I've gotten to know their personalities pretty well. Silas is more on the cautious side and loves playing independently with his cars. Adelina, on the other hand, is full of energy and constantly has me laughing. For someone who's not even two yet, she definitely has strong opinions about everything—but behind it all, she has the kindest little heart.

I'm really looking forward to spending the next few months with them!

SWEET MOMENTS WITH THE MK'S

Some of my favorite memories with the MK's have been at the park. Watching Adelina and Silas light up as they run to the playground is always a joy—but it is even more inspiring how they interact with other kids. Despite the language barrier, they still find ways to connect through laughter, shared toys, and simple play. It's a beautiful reminder that connection doesn't always need words. Seeing them step out of their comfort zones to engage with new friends, even in small ways, is a quiet kind of bravery. It's in these simple, joy-filled moments that I'm reminded just how much we can learn from little ones.
