

AIM TO BRAZIL

SEPTEMBER 2025

MOOCA IPUB

Praise the Lord! If you are reading this I would like to say thank you for your continued support and prayers during my time in São Paulo! God has been doing great things this month! We had a powerful youth service where God's spirit moved in a mighty way. I was thankful for the opportunity to speak on developing our identity in God.

the following day we had a district event with the other churches in São Paulo. There were roughly 8 or 9 other churches in attendance. I am thankful to have been a part of every single event that we have had. every single person I have met has been so welcoming but more than that I have been challenged in many ways.

THE LAST FEW WEEKS

This last Sunday I was asked by Pastor Ronillson to preach in the Sunday service. I ended up preaching on a topic that convicted me just as much as I hope it spoke to the church body, it was a simple topic “What’s stopping you?” When I sit back and truly think about where God has brought me from to where I am now is surreal and I thank God. I never would have expected that I had would opportunities to minister in other countries and meet so many amazing people.

In the last few weeks I have had before prepping to leave and head back to St. Louis I have made an effort to spend as much time as possible with the friends I have made during my time here. The amount of different cultures here blows me away every single time I stop to consider it. Sao Paulo truly is the New York of Brazil. There are so many different things to experience you could live here for years and never see it all in its entirety. From the streets of Paulista, to Liberdade Japao to the unique cafes and restaurants it is a beautiful city with beautiful people.

WRAPPING UP

It is hard to believe my time here in Brazil is already coming to a close. It feels as though it has gone by in a whirlwind but at the same time as though I have been in quicksand. fast and slow at the same time. It is has been so surreal and almost euphoric at times, to be in a different country, simply just with the vision of working in the kingdom of God while assimilating to a brand new culture. At the same time it has been very eye opening to American culture.

The work here in Brazil is strong, but it is not finished by any means. There is more that God is wanting to do both in the churches and in the country. Please join myself and those here in Brazil in praying that hearts would continue to turn towards God so that they can experience the transformative power of Jesus Christ. I am looking forward to seeing what God does in the future and hope that one day I might return to help in the work once again.
