

Goodbye

My time in the Indian Ocean Islands is coming to an end. I was blessed to go to each church on Reunion before leaving. It was so special to spend time at La Possession, St. Pierre, St. Denis, and finally St. Andre. I feel so loved by the people and the missions team in the IOI.

November Newsletter

Missions can be a lonely road, but I have made a family here and I know I will be leaving a piece of heart in these Islands. I have been blessed to worship, fellowship, and love the amazing people across the islands from Réunion to Mauritius to Seychelles and all the way back to Madagascar.

I want to go tell myself six months ago to trust the process that you will never regret the difficult times because you will have your life changed. In every early morning spent in prayer and every night spent studying the Word I have seen God's hand in my life. In every facetime back to the states and every game night with the team I have felt loved and connected to community.

Thanksgiving

I was blessed to spend my first Thanksgiving overseas in Madagascar with the amazing team of Chris and Paula Richardson, Jared, Tiffany, and Jonah Richardsons and the Cadd crew, David, Ashley, Arthur, Winston, and Rosalie. The power might have gone out a few times but we had a fantastic meal filled with laughter. Then we attended the leadership conference in Madagascar the day after and were blessed by the ministry there.

Pray for the IOI

I have had to say a lot of goodbyes this month. I will forever love the Indian Ocean Islands. Keep the Islands in your prayers. Keep the ministries in Réunion, Mauritius, Mayotte, Camaros, and Madagascar in your prayers. God is doing amazing things in the Indian Ocean you will never regret being a part of it. Until next time!
