

National Convention

In April, Arras, France hosted a historic national convention, gathering ministers from across the country for a defining moment in the life of the National Church. Key steps were taken toward nationalization, a process in which the work within the nation becomes increasingly led, governed, and sustained by its own national leadership. This step is to empower French pastors and leaders to direct vision, make decisions, and strategize evangelism and church planting within their own nation.

Adam Hunley (Global Missions Director) and Nathan Harrod (European Regional Director) were present, offering support during this significant shift. With a strong foundation of prayer, the coming years will be crucial as this transition unfolds and the Church in France moves toward greater strength and sustainability.

PCC 17 – Building a Foundation for Growth

Since February of this year, PCC 17 has begun to find its rhythm, with an average weekly attendance of 24 people, including around 15 guests or first-time visitors who are not directly connected to the main campus. As a core group has become more established, we've been able to involve more people in different ministries and focus on cultivate a warm, welcoming, and loving community.

This is laying a strong foundation for growth, for faith to deepen, and for lives to be impacted eternally. There is still much to learn, and we are continually refining our processes, but our greatest prayer and desire is to reach for more in our community and believing for baptisms and people to be filled with God's Spirit.

Our food and fellowship Fridays continue to be a great hit, with growing involvement! People are hungry for food, for fellowship and above all for the Word of God!
