Alwardt's in Aberdeen

In July, God has continued to open doors in Aberdeen. We have been given favor with the leadership of two different churches in the community, and each has invited us to meet with them individually. During several of these conversations, we have discussed what it looks like to cultivate an environment where the Spirit of God is free to move and how such a revival could begin in Scotland.

In one meeting, a church leader asked how to begin operating in the gifts of the Spirit and expressed a sincere openness and hunger to see God move in both Aberdeen and their own personal life. These conversations have been incredibly exciting, and we are grateful to see God stirring hearts with a fresh desire for a greater outpouring of His Spirit.

We have also recently met two neighboring families who have expressed interest in gathering for group devotion meetings. We are planning to begin in the coming weeks after many families return from their summer holidays.

At the same time, we continue investing in the relationships God has already given us. As trust has grown, we have been able to have deeper and more open conversations about the Lord and who He desires to be in their lives. Thank you for praying with us—your prayers are making a difference.

Celebrating our anniversary in Scotland.

Hospitality has continued to be one of the greatest tools God has given us. We have hosted dinners in our home nearly two nights each week, creating opportunities to build meaningful friendships and share testimonies of what God has done and what He is still able to do.

We know that God has ordered our steps, and we are thankful for the opportunity to minister to this community. We rejoice for the doors God is opening and the seeds being planted in hungry hearts. We are trusting Him to continue the work He has begun and look forward to the harvest that is yet to come.
