CEIA CONFERENCE

I had the opportunity to attend the CEIA Conference for three days. Bro. Stark and his team from Ohio taught and preached throughout the conference. Each service was amazing and powerful, and I'm so thankful I was able to be a part of it. One of the services was held at the Mooça church, while the other two services were held at the Mauá church.

ENGLISH CLASS

I started teaching English classes this month and have taught three classes so far. Everything is going really well, and everyone has been so excited and enthusiastic to learn English. On Sundays, the church members will come up to me and try speaking to me in English using what they have learned in class. It makes me so happy to see their excitement and willingness to learn!

MUSIC

This month, I also had the opportunity to join the music team. I play the piano every other Sunday during the church services. I enjoy being involved with the music team and am thankful for the opportunity to use my gift of music to serve the Lord.

HOME GROUPS

I have had the privilege of attending home groups for the past two months. Home groups were started in place of our regular midweek services to allow more people to attend, and we have had great turnouts. It has been amazing to see God work and do great things through these gatherings. We had our last home group at the end of this month, and we will begin having midweek services at the church again during the first week of September. I am so thankful to have been a part of these home groups and to have heard the different lessons that were taught. It has been a special time of fellowship, learning, and seeing God move.

This month has definitely had its ups and downs, but through everything, I feel like God has continued to teach me and help me grow. Even through the harder moments, it has made me more willing to continue on the path I'm on with God and trust Him with what He has planned for me. I'm thankful for everything I've been able to be a part of this month, including having the opportunity to help provide music at another church. In the next month, I'll also be able to help in the Bible school whenever they need me. I'm excited to see what the next few months will bring and what else God has in store!

Please continue to pray for the Anderson family, the IPUB churches, and Brazil.
