There is an old adage.... Good things come to those who wait.

Our dear Lochlan sure kept us waiting. As milestones and due dates flew past we tried our best to be patient for his arrival. When he finally arrived we realized that our lives would never be the same. God has given us this precious gift of a bouncing baby boy. We will endeavour to raise him to have a tender heart towards God and to love people.

Thank you all for all of the support you have given us on this journey. Thank you for loving the Gann family.

Personal Check-in September has been a month we will never forget. After a long and sometimes very impatient wait, we finally got to meet our little boy, Lochlan Dallas Gann! There really are no words to describe what it felt like to finally hold him. We have prayed for this little boy, waited for him, wondered about him, and now he is here. We are completely in love with him and are so thankful to God for this incredible gift. Now we are learning what life looks like as a family of four. We are tired, probably more tired than we expected, but we are so happy. Watching Finn become a big brother has been especially sweet, and we are enjoying all the little moments that come with having a newborn in the house. Thank you for praying for the Gann family. Thank you for caring about us, not just as missionaries, but as a family. We are entering this next chapter with full hearts, very little sleep, and a beautiful little boy in our arms. We couldn't ask for more.

"Children are indeed a heritage from the LORD, and the fruit of the womb is His reward."

-Ephesians 4:1

September

September marked a season of tremendous change for our family and what a change it has been! This month brought the arrival of our son, Lochlan Dallas Gann, and with him came one of the most life-changing and joyful experiences we have ever known.

Before Lochlan arrived, Kelsey's sister Hannah came to stay with us for a month. She was a tremendous help in preparing our home for the baby and caring for Finn while we were in the hospital. We are so thankful for the time she was able to spend with us and for all the ways she helped our family during such a special season. Kelsey's parents also made the long journey to Scotland because they wanted to be here when their grandson was born. Unfortunately, Lochlan apparently had his own schedule! They had to return home before he finally arrived. While it was disappointing that they didn't get to meet him in person, we were incredibly grateful for the time we were able to spend together. After a year and a half apart, those days together were precious. This is one of the harder parts of living overseas and serving in missions; the people we love most are often thousands of miles away when the big moments happen.

During this time we had our AMP interview. We feel that the interview went well and are now waiting to hear back following the General Conference. We are thankful for the opportunity to continue taking steps forward in our missionary journey.

On 23 September, everything changed as Lochlan Dallas Gann finally arrived! He weighed 7 lbs. 13 oz. and was born 41 days after his due date. Needless to say, we were very ready to meet him! We are completely in love with our little boy and are so thankful for this incredible blessing God has given our family. September has been a month we will never forget. Between family, ministry, unexpected challenges, and the arrival of our son, we have experienced so many reminders of God's goodness and faithfulness. We are especially grateful for the love and support of our church family here in the Highlands and for everyone who continues to pray for us from around the world. Thank you for praying for the Gann family and for Calvary Church. We are excited to begin this next chapter with Lochlan and look forward to seeing what God has in store for our family and His church in the Highlands.
